FAREWELL + ADIEU + ADIÓS + Auf Wiedersehen

I am sorry to inform you that this is the last issue of NASLINE. The current NASLIN Steering Committee and our founding members feel that it is time to “fold the tent and softly fade into the night.” In the past few years, many more sport information resources can be found on the Internet, via library database subscriptions and other online services. The need for this newsletter is not as critical now as we thought it was in 1993 when we first started publishing.

In addition we will disband the North American Sport Library Network (NASLIN) as an informally constituted entity. There remains, however, a wonderful core group of dedicated sport information professionals and librarians at key institutions in North America and abroad. Included in this group is our NASLIN founders and current Steering Committee:

- Dr. Wayne Wilson, Shirley Ito, Michael Salmon, LA 84 Foundation, Los Angeles, library@la84foundation.org, Web: <http://www.la84foundation.org>
- Cindy Slater, Assoc. Director, Library Services, H.J. Lutcher Stark Center for Physical Culture & Sport, University of Texas, Austin, cslater@mail.utexas.edu Web: <http://www.starkcenter.org/>
- James Gates, Library Director, National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum, jgates@baseballhalloffame.org, Web: <http://www.baseballhalloffame.org>
- Steve Gietschier, Asst Prof, History, Lindenwood University <http://www.lindenwood.edu>
- David Kelly, Social Sciences Reference (Sports), Library of Congress, dkel@loc.gov
- Suzanne Wise, Health, Leisure, Ex. Sci. Librarian, Appalachian State University, wisems@appstate.edu, Web: <http://www.library.appstate.edu>
- Staff of SIRC Sport Research (800) 665-6413, Web <http://www.sirc.ca>

Our colleagues from abroad may be found via the IASI 2.0 new Ning Network <http://sportinfo.ning.com/> This new website and communication network is now available for anyone interested in sport information world wide.
