1.0 News from Sports Organizations

1.1 NASLIN

Through the good offices of the North American Society for Sport History Executive Council, NASLIN will hold its 9th Conference on May 24-25, 2003 in conjunction with the 31st Annual Conference of NASSH that is slated for the Memorial Day weekend, May 23-26, 2003. The conference site is Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio.

NASLIN will hold its two-day conference on Saturday and Sunday, May 24 and 25 and will be included as one of the "sessions" of the multi-session'd NASSH conference.

The NASSH website <http://www.nassh.org> will have further details of accommodation, etc. By late fall the NASLIN conference website should have a preliminary program. Consult Scholarly Sport Sites for the announcement of the NASLIN conference website <http://www.ucalgary.ca/library/ssportsite/>

SIRCThesaurus

Announcing the newly updated SIRCThesaurus, 6th Edition, 2002

Staff at SIRC have received the CD ROM and print copies of the newly updated SIRCThesaurus and are ready to receive order requests from libraries and sport documentation centers. The pricing of this new edition is the same as the 2001 edition:

- PDF download - $95
- PDF on CD ROM - $115
- Printed Format - $149

Note that for Canadian purchasers, the price is in Canadian dollars, and for all other purchasers the price is in US dollars.

Compared to the 2001 edition, the 6th edition includes:

- 77 new thesaurus terms (in the main list, the clubs, geographical and corporate name lists)
- 60 new USE references (ie. See refs)
- Many more personal names as descriptors
- 22 new BB codes (ie the 6-digit code that generates the subject headings for the four different languages)
- Plus revision of some hierarchical relationships and additional SNs (scope notes)

This new edition may be ordered online (see URL above) or by sending an order request to:

Other SIRC News

The SIRCThesaurus has expanded its reach to the Netherlands. The Netherlands Olympic Committee/Netherlands Sports Confederation (NOC/NSF) has translated the SIRCThesaurus to facilitate research of sport and related information. Over ninety Dutch national sport organizations, high performance coaches and Dutch researchers will use the SIRCThesaurus to navigate the NOC/NSF's website database collection.

Since fall of 2001, SIRC has been integrating the monographic records from the Paul Ziffren Resource Center at the Amateur Athletic Foundation of Los Angeles into SPORTDiscus. There are 21,166 records to be added in all formats. (The serials and AV will be done later). Working with the older records Linda Wheeler has added most all the monographs from 1646 to 1973, & 1997 to 2001 resulting in the addition of many more US, UK monographs than were previously found in the database. AAFLA's collection of older material is strong on sport specific works, biographies, sport fiction (a resource not usually found in SPORTDiscus) and Olympic materials.

In addition to this work, duplicate records from SIRC, AAFLA, the Olympic Museum, Heracles or other sources have been amalgamated into one record with each record being updated with more descriptors, notes, LC data or other pertinent information. In addition the country code has been added to all works prior to 1983, the year the country code was added as a field in SPORTDiscus. This massive project will result in a more informative, more accessible and easier to use database. The addition of the AAFLA monographic records will add greatly to the sport history component of SPORTDiscus.

Other database enhancement projects include:

- Adding the 600-item Adapted Aquatics database originally compiled by Susan Grosse, a Canadian physical education teacher.
- The Canadian Sport Tourism Alliance has formed an association with SIRC and deposits many of their documents, including PowerPoint presentations with SIRC.
- PASSOR, Physiatric Association of Spine, Sports and Occupational Rehabilitation (an official council of the American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation). This association produces an annual bibliography on various topics (e.g. lumbar spine). SIRC is surveying its contents and assuring that articles and documents not in SPORTDiscus are acquired and indexed.
- With the change in policy at SIRC, book reviews found mainly in the refereed journals are also being indexed. This has resulted in many more monographs being added to the database for there must be a parent record for the book mentioned in the book review. Note that the parent record for the reviewed monograph may not have a location in SPORTDiscus as these records were added because of the addition of a book review. SIRC is using the citation information from LC and other union catalogues.

- SIRC is implementing the automatic serials check in feature of the Cuadra Star system and has a long-term project of updating the holdings records for each of the thousands of serials (current and ceased) they hold.

1.3 Amateur Athletic Foundation of Los Angeles (AAFLA)

<http://www.aafla.org/>

The AAFLA Research Director, Daniel Bell recently announced that AAFLA has completed the digitizing of the Olympic Review in English (1901-2000) and the French edition Revue Olympique, (1894-1998). This prodigious undertaking gives AAFLA preeminence as a source for online sport history research. AAFLA now offers over 30,000 pages of digitized research resources. To recap their digitized serials, the following can be found on their website:

Sports Participation Statistics

Certain sports participation statistics are available from various companies including American Sports Data, Inc., NCAA, National Sporting Goods Association and Sporting Goods Manufacturing Association. Accurate, standardized and comprehensive sports participation statistics are of great interest to many sport researchers.

Recently some national bodies have produced sport participation publications. They include:

Australian Sports Commission. Participation in Exercise, Recreation and Sport 2001, 42p. (Available in PDF format at: <http://www.activeaustralia.org/facts/ERASS.pdf>)

As Greg Blood of NSIC mentioned this publication will serve as a benchmark for further surveys. It takes over from the Australian Bureau of Statistics survey entitled: Participation in sport and physical activities.

Singapore Sports Council. Management Services Division. National Sports Participation Survey 2001. 96p. (Research paper 45/01) (

Request a copy from the Singapore Sports Council by emailing Sharon_Lau@ssc.gov.sg

And Sport Canada recently made available on its website the Statistics Canada, General Social Survey report called Sport Participation in Canada, 1998 Report, 77 pages (Note that this survey was of approximately 10,000 Canadians aged 15 years and older and is not a comprehensive national survey). United States Golf Association

<http://www.usga.org/>

Doug Stark, the new Librarian at the United States Golf Association (USGA) in Far Hills, NJ has been busy organizing the library and archives and answering many reference requests. The Library contains over 14,000 volumes, more than 200 periodical titles, roughly 150 scrapbooks, an audio collection, vertical files and complete information on the USGA, its history and its championships. The Library is nearing completion on a conservation project for the audio collection and rare books.

The Museum recently acquired a collection of 100 golf-themed sheet music and is preparing an exhibit for next year. The Museum will be having an auction through PBA Galleries in San Francisco on November 21, 2002 – approximately 1800 duplicate volumes de-accessioned from the USGA Library, with proceeds from the auction to be used for conservation and acquisitions. In the fall, the staff hopes to embark on a Records Management/Records Retention plan for institutional records

Beginning in September, the USGA will open a new exhibit entitled “Legends of Modern Golf: Photographs by Gerald Sprayregen.” Based on Sprayregen’s 1999 book, Power, Passion, Honor & Glory: Five Heroes of Modern Golf, (Pound Ridge, NY: Sports: Poetry in Motion, 1999) the exhibit consists of 21 photographs of Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson, Greg Norman and Tiger Woods during the 1998 and 1999 seasons. After its stay at Golf House, the exhibit will embark on a 7-stop tour through mid-2005. For additional information about the USGA’s Traveling Exhibit Program, please contact the USGA at (908) 234-2300 or log on to www.usga.org.

Doug was most recently the Assistant Curator and Librarian/Archivist at the Basketball Hall of Fame. He replaces Rand Jerris, former Librarian, who has been promoted to Director of the USGA Museum and Archives. The collection is open to researchers by appointment only. You can contact Doug Stark at dstark@usga.org

NBA Box Score Archive

A NASLINE reader posed a question last month about the availability of online NBA box scores prior to 1997. It appears that the box scores are available on the Sportstracker website (<http://sportstracker.nss.net/Boxscores/>) but only from 1997 to date. Archivists at The Sporting News report that their weekly print publication has them for the two decades prior to 1997, but searches of Google and other meta-search engines have not met with success. If anyone can assist with question, do contact Caroline N. Bordinaro, Shatford Library, Pasadena City College, email: cmbordinaro@pasadena.edu

Fitness Information Technology, Inc. Online Sport Psychology Test Division
<http://www.fitinfotech.com/>

During the summer Dr. Andrew Ostrow, President of FIT launched a test center where a well-known sport psychology test on group cohesion, the Group Environment Questionnaire (GEQ), is available online along with a newly written GEQ Test Manual The manual written by the test creators, Albert Carron, Larry Brawley and Neil Widmeyer covers the conceptual framework for the test instrument, information on how the GEQ was developed and validated, along with the detailed scoring and interpretive information and normative data. In addition, the manual contains a code of ethics outlining the user's scientific responsibilities. This manual is available online or in print form ($29 ISBN 1885693443).

Access to this test is by subscription, and has three advantages online:

1. Researchers can download the GEQ if the intended subjects do not have access to a computer or, researchers can have the subject complete the test online.
2. Researchers are required to write an online abstract outlining the intended research use of the GEQ. A copy of this abstract is sent electronically to the lead author of the GEQ, so that efforts to update the test manual by test authors can be done more systematically.
3. FIT will provide an automated scoring of the GEQ subscale responses. In this way, the researcher can readily examine the group subscale scores of subjects who complete the GEQ online.

Dr. Ostrow hopes that the FIT website can become a clearinghouse for the advancement of some of the more widely used sport or exercise-specific psychological tests. (his email: fit2@adelphia.net)

Biomechanics and modeling in mechanobiology
V1, no1, June 2002 - quarterly

Print format ISSN 1617-7959

Online format ISSN 1617-7940

Berlin/NY: Springer Verlag <http://www.springer.de/>

Description: "Mechanics regulates biological processes at the molecular, cellular, tissue, organ, and organism levels. The goal of this journal is to provide a forum for basic and applied research that promotes and integrates the expanding knowledge-bases in the allied fields of biomechanics and mechanobiology..... Of particular interest are investigations that:

- Quantify the mechanical environment in health, disease, or injury
- Report discoveries that advance therapeutic and diagnostic procedures
- Detail inter-relations between mechanics and the associated biological processes....
- Identify and quantify mechanosensitive responses and their mechanisms."

Subscription costs: $377 USD or 298 EUR for both print and electronic editions.
