

1.0 News from Sports Organizations

1.1 Joint Conference, IASMHF/NASLIN, Lake Placid, NY October 27-30, 1999

The Planning Committees for the IASMHF/NASLIN joint conference are buzzing with ideas for the program and the social activities in Lake Placid. Joint sessions will be held on Thursday and Friday morning and include presentations on automation of collections, conservation, collection appraisal among other topics. Friday afternoon is reserved for tours of the Lake Placid sports facilities and museum. Saturday's sessions will focus on technological innovations and problems including listservs (operation), website issues (images, changes in technology, upkeep), archives and presentations from outstanding sports centers.

Accommodation/Transportation:

Air service has improved to Lake Placid with US Airways flying into Saranac Lake from the larger centers of Burlington, VT or Albany, NY and Montreal. The Lake Placid Hilton is the conference hotel and rooms have been reserved for conference participants at $79 per night.

Program/Registration

The program should be finalized by April/May with the mailing of the conference information by late summer. We will also send an email registration/program to NASLIN members. Early registration is $150 (late summer deadline) and includes many meals and banquet. The late registration fee is $175.

Do mark your calendars and make preliminary plans. Lake Placid organizers have requested an especially beautiful fall for 1999, so we hope to see you there.

1.2 The Sport Information Resource Centre

Implementation of SIRC's new computer system, Cuadra STAR, is coming along very well with SIRC staff working very hard to implement each module. A new Coding Manual is in the final editing process and soon farflung indexers will have a guide to the field tags which will replace the numerical ones which are formerly used.

In the fall a new librarian, Paula Van Steen, joined SIRC and she will be indexing the monographic material for the SPORTDiscus database.

<<<SPORTDiscus Enhancements>>>

With the issuing of the 1999-01 update to the database, 6,000 of SIRC's serial holdings records will be added. These represent the active serials which are indexed for the database and those which have ceased publication. Staff is working with the two major vendors, SilverPlatter and Ovid to reload the SPORTDiscus database. This reload will bring new fields (some were mentioned in Nasline #12). One other new field added to the SIRC serial-article and book analytic record is the total number of pages for each article or chapter (Field tag name is: JPTOT and BATPG for the serial-article and book-analytic tags, respectively)

Other additions to the database include a number of Australian local sport club histories and other materials which the National Sport Information Centre in Australia added last summer. This was all part of NSIC's work with the Australian National Bibliography and other sport sources to ensure that the SPORTDiscus is more comprehensive when it comes to all aspects of Australian sport.

1.3 The American Alpine Club Library (AAC)

The AAC Library has a new Library Director, Gay Ellen Roesch, who is busy cataloguing this important collection (10,203 titles) of mountaineering material. Records are reported to OCLC's WorldCat. Established in 1916, the AAC Library is the oldest alpine research collection in the US and serves the AAC as well as the Colorado Mountain Club, plus other researchers. She estimates that 75-80% of her collection has a record in WorldCat and the rest is unique or needs extensive record upgrading. In addition, the AAC Library has an sizable map, slide and photograph collection. In her new quarters, a special climate controlled room now houses the precious rare book collection. Gay can be contacted at: library@americanalpineclub.org or visit their website at: www.AmericanAlpineClub.org where library services and other AAC services are outlined.

1.4 Amateur Athletic Foundation of Los Angeles

On March 19-23, 1999, AAFLA will play host to members of the International Association for Sports Information who will hold their annual meeting in Los Angeles. IASI members from sport documentation centres around the world are expected to attend this meeting in the very pleasant surroundings of the AAFLA library and museum.

Wayne Wilson, VP Research reports also that the AAFLA website (www.aafla.org) is implementing a search engine on the website to make it easier to find the information one requires.

2.0 Technology Update - Surfing the Web

Once again your editor was out there in cyberspace searching the web for scholarly sport "gems." See the results in the following sections.

<<Websites for Graduate Education in PE/Sport Sciences>>

Two websites contain information on graduate education programs mainly in US colleges and universities.

Gradschools.com (Access Group: Education Financing and Services)
<http://www.gradschools.com>

A commercial website listing over 44,000 graduate programs at many universities in the US and some overseas universities. Provides an index by specific program. For sport/physical education the site lists programs under: dance, exercise sciences, kinesiology, physical education, psychology - sport, recreation & parks administration, and sports administration & management. Each entry has a hotlink to the university faculty member representing the graduate program and another to the university's home page. Also lists address, voice/fax numbers, but does not accurately list the name of the department in many cases. Only a few entries have a sentence or two which describes the program in more detail.

Peterson's Education and Career Center
<http://www.petersons.com>

This website edition of the well-known and authoritative Peterson's Annual Guide to Graduate Programs (in print and CD ROM also) provides basic information on graduate programs in the US and Canada. For physical education/sport sciences, Peterson's organizes the this subject area into 7 sub-areas (e.g. sport administration, recreation, kinesiology) for 350 graduate programs. Each entry lists degrees offered, number of faculty, current graduate enrolment and entrance requirements. The print or CD ROM version should be consulted for further details of each program.

Physical Education Links (University of Athens. Dept of Physical Education and Sport Science) www.uoa.gr/tefaa/depts.htm

A list of hotlinks to kinesiology, sport sciences and HPERD departments at the universities and colleges in the US (128 links), Canada (22), Australia(8), the UK (12), Greece (1), Germany (1), NZ (1), South Africa (1).

2.4 Online Booksellers and Video Sources

We listed in Nasline No. 12 an online bookseller called Interloc. Interloc has now become Alibris: the Ultimate Source for Out-of Print & Rare Books (www2.alibris.com). A search under various sport related words, including exercise, biomechanics, and sports netted a substantive number of academic books and other sports generalia.

2.5 Online Publications and Documents

Canada. Parliament. House of Commons. Standing Committee on Canadian Heritage. Sub-Committee on the Study of Sport in Canada. Sport in Canada: everybody's business, Dennis Mills, M.P., Chair. Ottawa, December 1998.
